Leading Practice Library

An online library of solutions to help with health care safety and quality challenges

The Leading Practice Library

is a complimentary tool available to organizations that are currently accredited and/or certified by The Joint Commission. The solutions documents in the Library are real life solutions that have been successfully implemented by health care organizations that support patient safety and quality health care. All have been reviewed by The Joint Commission and are cross-referenced to the corresponding chapters in the standards manuals. By accessing the Library link located on your accredited organization's extranet page, you can browse through as many topics of interest as needed at any time.

The Library's information is ever changing as documents are continuously posted. Topics run across all health care issues and cut across all health care settings. To help us make the Library even better, we are always encouraging organizations to contribute their own leading practices.

Sample topics include solutions such as:

- suicide risk screens
- caregiver education records
- anesthesia orders
- home health aide care plans
- airway alerts
- life safety code compliance tools
- turning schedules

Easily search the Leading Practice Library for solutions to that fit your organization's needs by program, standards chapter, document type, organization size, location, and language.
